MEDICAL. THE PREMATURE DECAY OF YOUTH. JUST PUBLISHED BY DR. STONE, PHYSICIAN to the Troy Lung and Hygeinic Institute a treatise on the early Becay of American Youth; the vice of Self-Ahuse and Hs direful consequences; Seminal Weakness and other diseases of the Sexual Organs in both male and female.
The above work bas received the highest commendation from several hading papers of the Union as one of the most able ever published on this subject of such vital interest. It is for gratuitous distribution, and it will be ent by mattin a sealed envelop to any part of the country ree of charge, on receipt of two stamps for postage. 18" Fail not to send and obtain this book.

A Word of Solemn Conscientious Advice MANUFACTI RERS' ARTICLES: to those who will Reflect. It is a solemn fact that 100,000 die annually lu lie United States with consumption, marasmus, or premature decay. There cannot be an effect without an adequate cause. In view of the awful destruction of human I te and health, by marasmus or premature extraortion and decay of the nervous system. Dervous debility, suced by saxual diseases, such as the vice of Self-Ahuse. In reale and female, and Starility, and organic diseases of the kidneys, and in view of the deceptions which are practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such illegases practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such illegases by quacks and base pretenders, the Directors of the Troy Lang and Hygehde Institute have instructed their atas to a true and reliable means of cure. And the Insti-tulion proposes to treat the unfortunate, and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, for a sum that will only compensate the cost of medicines.

3 The most reliable conscientions advice will at all mes be given by the physician of the Institution, both Male and Female, respecting the diseases of the sexual

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1860. Two BROTHERS .- Before us are awo ph tographs from the original pictures of tw brothers. We have received them at the hand of one to whom both of these faces were near a dear. Our streets remember one of them, a though the grass has grown over its wenr r a most twenty years in the old graveyard in th lower part of onr city. On the weather stained monument is written: "In memory

George Keata (a nativo of England), born 1 March, 1798, died 24th Dec. 1841." There are many living in Louisville who r member George Keats; they remember him a enltivated and most agrecable gentlem full of warm impulses and fine and high int ligenee-with manners that endeared him to who knew him slightly, and a spirit that made warm and lasting friendship with those the knew bim well. Many that knew him : friends will recall his face and voice the nized by them, for it was taken in England b fore he made his home in the then indeed "i far West," when the words of the old how Gorge Keats came to Louisville in 1818, w his young wife, whom his brother called in o of his sweetest sonnets

And Louisville had not then dreumed itself of of the shadows of the old green trees and t pioneer days. George Keats was a man b loved and honored and those who bear un bore his name are still with us. Many ha But, dear reader, beud down and kiss th other face, for it is one of the world's deare in the world-gallery of fame. Earnest, large eyed, as if awakened with the sight of a glor thought breathes poetry in English words, y will not hear them ask who is John Kent You will not hear a poet ask that question fe "The twilight warmth of ruddy embre gloom."

his voice arises in every poet's thought. "St. Agnes' Evel ah bliter chill it was, The owl for all his feathers was a-cold," will start to his memory that sweet and me perfect love poem, weird as it dreamed on a vinter night on some moon-hauated shore Fairyland, while thought was "asleep in Romance-schauous as a lovers thought-pu as a Greck idea carved in marble: "St. Agne. Eve-the love-dream that young Roman dreams, written in immortal words. And i his lonely and saddened musings he will speak in a low half-whispering voice,

"My heart aches and a drow-y numbres: pains My sense, as though of hemiock l had drunk." and the delieions throbs of the "Ode to the Nightingale" will haunt his solitary feeling. If he walks in the autumn fields or woods or orehards or vineyards the "Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness, Close bosom-friend of the maturing sun, Couepiring with bim how to load and bless With fruit the vines that round the thatch-

And Saturn will lie "Deep in the shady sadness of a vale Far sunken from the healthy breath of morn, Far from the fiery noon and Eve's one star."

And so it will be forever. John Keats ha given an immortal dower to the world's beauty and poetry. And all readers must know him, whose breath always seems glorified-the incense of the Beautiful as his heart was her We cannot help comparing his life to his

Byron says elsewhere of the same "he who would die of an article in a review would have died of something else equally trivial." True, but Keats was one with the high worship of the Beautiful in his soul; a poet and not a weak sentimentalist; a man—and he did not die of an article. Like his own early line about Poetry which he called "Might half-simple or minds to believe it. We can easily unrstand the sad disuppointment of the parti-idiotic tyrum of Naples. Every dny of delay damps their ardeut expectations. Alexander II. was to be the pivot of the new diplomatic conspiracy ugainst the emancipation of Italy. The young Czar had been moved to nuduc excitement by some unknown influence, and might possibly have committed himself in August or September to a foolish policy and some rash act. But this passed away, and Alexander is sure to listen to the dictates of good sense and cool reflection. He will see that the apprehension of a conflagration, to extend fromthe Versuvius 10 the Borysthenes, is a mere Austro-German invention; that nothing is more treacherous than the cujolings of Germany, Prussia, and Austria; that the absolute independence of the whole of Italy is the only way to pr vent explosions elsewhere; above all, we hope that, before October 20, he will learn thm the soundest policy for Russia is to mind her own domestic afficirs, and not to be, as she was in the wars of Napoleon the Great, down to the war of 1849 in Hungary, the pliant tool of the German Hapsburgs. The meeting in ended for August or September was to surprise all Europe.
